

NORFOLK AND WESTERN CLASS J #611

- Entered service on May 29, 1950
- Derailed on a curve near Devon, WV. It was repaired and returned to service.
- Stored in Bluefield and chosen for the last fan trip on October 24, 1959.
- Returned to excursion service in 1982 and was retired again in 1994.
- Returned to excursion service again in 2013 and has limited excursions today.
- The only Class J still in existence

Color this drawing of the 611 or better yet, practice drawing it to put it into a picture of the 611 pulling a passenger train between West Virginia and Roanoke.